Roadway Safety Tips and Reporting

A Note from Major Hawkins
Bureau of Community Policing Commander, Brentwood Police

One of our primary goals in law enforcement is keeping the community safe. There are many ways we enforce laws for the safety of the Brentwood Community, and traffic enforcement is one of the most critical.

Since COVID-19 reared its ugly head, in early March, we have seen an enormous increase in pedestrian and other recreational traffic on our streets, sidewalks, and pathways.

Not surprisingly, the police department began receiving requests for additional traffic enforcement in our residential areas. In response to these requests, we've developed a rotating list of traffic enforcement areas within our residential neighborhoods, based solely on citizen complaints of dangerous traffic patterns.

areas where children, joggers, and walkers are out and about on a regular basis. Times have changed. The speed limit hasn't. You may be reading this and think, "Well I am a safe driver, what else can I do?" I was hoping you'd ask...

Roadway safety comes from many angles, so let's explore just a few. Simply following the rules of the road is a great start, not just as a driver, but as a pedestrian or biker as well! For pedestrians and bikers alike, please follow the laws and help us keep you safe!

For parents, please ensure your children practice safety when playing outside, especially in or near the street. Play in groups, with adult supervision, look both ways, and don't blindly run into the street after a ball.

Finally, if you have a traffic problem on your street, let us know immediately so we can help.

Please help us keep the Brentwood community safe and, as always, stay safe and healthy.

Traffic stops and speed trailers are great ways to catch the attention of dangerous drivers, but they are only part of the equation. We ask each of our residents to do their part practicing safe driving, especially in our residential
